DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
  - I. Claims 1-8, drawn to an apparatus for detecting defects in a surface, classified in class 250, subclass 339.14.
  - II. Claim 9-30, drawn to methods of determining defects in coatings, classified in class 250, subclass 341.6.
2. The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions II and I are related as process and apparatus for its practice. The inventions are distinct if it can be shown that either: (1) the process as claimed can be practiced by another materially different apparatus or by hand, or (2) the apparatus as claimed can be used to practice another and materially different process. (MPEP § 806.05(e)). In this case, the apparatus can be used in materially different processes such as processes that do not require taking multiple measurements of a surface such as before and after the application of one or mote coatings.
3. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.
4. This application contains claims directed to the following patentably distinct species of the invention:

Species 1, (claims 1-8), directed to an apparatus configured to measure and compare a change in temperature of a surface and not requiring any particular measurements either before, after, or in between the application of any coatings.

Species 2 (claims 9-14), directed to a method including at least steps of creating a thermal signature of a surface, measuring emitted radiation following the application of each of two coatings, and comparing thermal signatures.

Species 3 (claims 15-19), directed to a method including at least steps of applying a plurality of coatings, assigning thermal effusivity values to each coating, and comparing temperature changes.

Species 4 (claims 20-25), directed to a method including at least steps of creating a thermal signature of a surface, changing the temperatures of the surface following the application of each of two coatings, measuring emitted radiation following the application of each of two coatings, and configuring an expected temperature change.

Species 5 (claims 26-30), directed to a method including at least steps of creating a temperature differential between a surface and a coating, applying the coating, and measuring and comparing temperature changes.

5. Applicant is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 to elect a single disclosed species for prosecution on the merits to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. Currently, no claim is generic.

6. Applicant is advised that a reply to this requirement must include an identification of the species that is elected consonant with this requirement, and a listing of all claims readable thereon, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered nonresponsive unless accompanied by an election.

7. Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

8. Should applicant traverse on the ground that the species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention.

9. No telephone call was made to request an oral election to the above restriction requirement.

10. Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

11. Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
